ELSIE HILL WOULD GIVE WOMEN CREDIT IN HISTORY

Elsie Hill

Is it any wonder the average American youth has a half-stiffed contempt for women when one reads the pages of history and discovers the namby pamby impression that historians give of the Other Half of the nation's forebears?

Miss Elsie Hill, daughter of former Representative Ebenezer Hill of Connecticut and president of the District of Columbia branch of the Equal Suffrage League, asks this question.

She has secured the appointment of a committee to look into the school books. She would have the histories revised so that woman may be given her proper place and due credit.
